Principles of the draw

Teams have been drawn randomly against one another by the tournament referee, subject to the following restrictions:

- Higher-seeded teams get easier games in round 1. This means that if you qualify top of your division, you'll play a team that qualified second or third from its division, and vice versa.
- Winners play losers in rounds 2 and 3. This means that if you win one match, your next match is easier, and if you lose, your next match is harder.
- Divisions should be mixed up as much as possible. This means that you definitely won't play a team from your own division in rounds 1 and 2, and probably not in round 3.
- Teams shouldn't meet twice before the final. This means that you will definitely play three different teams in rounds 1, 2 and 3.
